based on a liquid-cooled, in-line four-cylinder 1,235cc powerplant with water-jacketed exhaust electronic fuel injection.

Honda also features an adjustable quick-trim system on the R-12X. By pulling a control on the handlebar, drivers can redirect the angle of the jet nozzle. Doing so in a sharp turn helps change the attitude of the bow so the running surface can re-grab the water instantly. You can be going this way while everyone else is still going that way.
